Why a Focus on 'Food Security' in GM?

Developing a Mission-Orientated approach to Food Security in Greater Manchester

The 21st century is becoming increasingly defined by the need to respond to major issues facing society. These are sometimes referred to as 'grand challenges'.

To make these challenges achievable, they need to be broken down into pragmatic steps. These can be termed 'Missions'. They have tangible targets within a challenge context that act as frames and stimuli for Innovation.

Task groups will ideally emerge from participative codesign processes, reinforcing 'bottom-up' engagement as a core principle of mission-oriented innovation.

There needs to be a strong emphasis on a cross-sector, 'whole-society' approach that is both ambitious but also realistically achievable.
